GENERAL NOTES.

The Kittiwake in Florida.—I shot a Kittiwake, (Rissa tridactyla tridactyla) on the beach at Jupiter on the east coast of Florida on January 24, 1921.

The feathers of the lower surface were very heavily coated with crude oil but as the bird was in fair condition the accident must have been of recent occurrence.

When first observed it was sitting among some Herring Gulls near high water mark, as it rose I saw it was not a Bonaparte's Gull, which I had taken it for, and shot it. It proved to be a male in the plumage of the second year and is now in the State Museum at Gainesville.

I was struck with the pronounced emargination of the tail—much more evident than in the adult.—ALLAN BROOKS, Okanagen Landing, B. C.
